Still Kickin’... At 81!

Well I couldn’t play like I did 10 years ago and certainly not like I did from 1964 until 1984... SIX nights a week! I did the business for my bands and had no problem getting the money and guys like being paid well.

I wouldn’t take a booking for less than 3 months so not moving equipment was the real good part! By the way, we played one hotel for 23 months... 6 nights a week! But that was in my 20’s to early 40’s... much different now at 81.

But I get out to some jams and some of the bands let me sit in for a couple of tunes... love it all.

A special event presentation for the benefit of Ajijic Cares

An upstanding Mormon couple confront the suicide of their gay son and a reassessment of their faith. An open grave – a mother who is relieved her son is now free from his "sin of homosexuality" – a father who will not leave the cemetery until an honest funeral has been given for the son who took his own life in a flower bed beside the Salt Lake Mormon temple – a grieving partner who unexpectedly arrives at the grave and has his first encounter with the parents of the man he loved. What went wrong? Who is to blame? And where in all of this is God?

This is a one act play of 80 minutes starring Debra Bowers, David Ellison and Wayne Waterman.
